

Introduction of the Center

AIT Belt and Road Research Center (BRRC) was established in 2019, and its vision is to serve as an International hub for collaborative and innovative research towards robust economic growth and sustainable development in the Belt and Road region.

AIT BRRC's mission covers enhancing AIT's Belt & Road projects, promoting collaboration with China's and other Belt & Road Countries' Universities and Organizations, supporting young scholars/students' research and study in the region with Belt & Road fellowships/scholarships, and disseminating the related collaborative outcomes with wider community through Regional/International Belt & Road Conferences.

As an International Education/Research Institute with diversified students and researchers from all over the world, AIT is in well connection in the Belt and Road Countries and it has constructed excellent networks that provide great advantages to support BRRC to fulfill its goals in the future.
